

DAYTIME ROBBER
PILFERED MOKENA
GRAIN OFFICE

What looks like a well informed burglar or burglars, entered the Mokena Grain and Supply company office at Mokena last Friday morning about 11:45 and helped themselves to the contents of the cash drawer.

The owners, Robert Hohenstein and Harold Schuldt, had just gone to the coal shed a few feet away to load a small amount of coal. They were just out of the office for about eight minutes and when they returned they saw what had happened. They had taken $200 in cash and seven checks, the latter were not endorsed. Nothing else was disturbed or taken.

The Joliet sheriff was called and made an investigation, stating that it had the appearance of someone who is acquainted with the surroundings and who had planned the robbery.

J. R. BOWEN DIED IN NEWTON, IOWA

Word comes to us from the Newton, Iowa paper of the death of Mr. James R. Bowen, 87, retired Joliet and New Lenox contractor, in the Skiff Memorial hospital on Monday, December 6, following a heart attack.

Mr. Bowen was preceded in death by his wife, Nellie Reynolds Bowen in 1930. He had lived in Newton for the past 14 years after his marriage to Anna Lattimer in 1934.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and the United Presbyterian church.

Beside his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Henry Rust of Sherburn, Minn., and Mrs. E. W. Bush of Joliet, also three step sons, four grand children and four great grandchildren. Funeral services were held Wednesday December 8 in the Toland funeral home, with the Rev. Ray Davis officiating. Interment was in Union cemetery. Pall bearers were members of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Mr. Bowen will be remembered by many in this territory, having lived in New Lenox township, near Marley for many years.

Voters Reject Lock.
Homer School Unit

The voters of Lockport, Homer and part of Dupage townships, rejected the proposed unit school district by a large majority at the polls last Saturday. Of the 1,089 votes cast in the rural areas, 291 were for the issue and 798 against it. The city of Lockport refused it by a vote of 103 for and 189 against.

Homer township probably cast the largest relative vote of any precinct, polling 148 votes for the measure and 156 against it.

Whether or not the decision was a wise one, only time will tell. But while we are considering the next move for the improvement of our schools, let us bear in mind that the caliber of our teachers, the equipment we provide them and the backing they receive from their patrons are more important than the school buildings or the number of pupils and grades per school.

Riders Ankle Broken
When Horse Slipped

As Glen Vally of New Lenox, riding on his horse last Sunday morning, went to the pasture to get another horse, his horse slipped on the frosted ground and fell. Mr. Vally could not get his foot out of the stirrup in time and he fell also, breaking his ankle.

It took him a half hour to get his foot out of his boot, and then crawled home. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital at once where the broken bone was set, and a walking cast placed on it. He returned home Tuesday.

School Wrecked

Vandals entered the Gatter school, district sometime during the night of December 2, and almost completely demolished the inside of the building.

It was discovered Friday morning when Mrs. Raymond Sulkowski, caretaker and Mrs. Charlotte Dougherty of Joliet, teacher came to the school. Because the electric clock was stopped at 11:15 gives an idea of what time it might have been when the pillaging took place.

The electric light fixtures were smashed and pulled from their places and other electric wiring pulled out. Paint and ink was spilled over each desk, and on the books and on the floor. Shelves were pulled from the wall, and everything that was possible to destroy, was done.

The school was newly decorated this fall and a new fire extinguisher bought a month ago, was also destroyed.

Top-Flight Features
And Acts at Circus

The name of Hanneford stands for the dazzling peak in circus riding—absolute bareback supremacy—the world over. That is why this dashing band will be an outstanding feature of the third International circus when it opens a 9-day engagement at the Coliseum, Chicago, Christmas night.

Generations old, the present George Hanneford troupe, is a far cry from past Hanneford displays, in that this year's offering is an all-new act, enlarged and streamlined, with many startling novelty and comedy attractions to its superb repertoire of bareback artistry. They start where all other bareback artists leave off. And, with George Hanneford, conceded to be the world's greatest riding comedian heading the big troupe, circus patrons can look forward to a real treat.

Almost countless other top-flight features and attractions will be included on this year's program. The renowned Kimrus Duo, an aerial sensation direct from Europe; the Shyrettos, astounding high-bicycle stars; the John Gibson Troupe, breath taking "high in the air" thriller; Lovely Lalage, the "High Priestess of Rhythm," solo aerial star from France; the Joe Walsh Wild Animal display, battling thirty man-eating lions and tigers, and Francisco and Dolores, high-perch performers, six more of spangleland's greatest attractions.

Performances are scheduled for 2:00 and 8:15 p.m. each day following the opening performance Christmas night, with the gates opening at 1:00 and 7:00 p.m. For the convenience of circus patrons, mail orders are now being received at the Coliseum, and the regular advance ticket sale is scheduled to open Monday, Dec. 20th at the Fair Store and at the Coliseum box office.

Why Vote Was Cast Against Housing Act

A City Councilman Casts his Vote Against Racial Discrimination in Publicly Aided Housing

Remarks of Newbold Morris, president of the council of the city of New York, casting his vote in opposition to the Metropolitan Life Insurance housing project, at the Board of Estimate meeting Thursday, June 3, 1943.

The statement below is being reprinted by the Public Housing Association at this time for the reason that hearings have opened before the housing committee of the city council on Alderman Archibald Carey's "Non-Discrimination Ordinance for Publicly Aided Housing." Twelve aldermen joined with Mr. Carey in the sponsorship of the Ordinance and at least 13 others have expressed themselves as favoring it. It is expected to come up for a vote by the full council before Christmas. A similar ordinance was adopted in New York in 1944.

"This is one of the most difficult votes I have had to cast in my five and one-half years on this governing board of the City of New York.

"The division between my colleagues and me revolves solely around the question of whether this is a private or public project. I am unable to agree that it is private... the people of this City are granting to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company the power of eminent domain and substantial subsidies in the form of tax exemption on the improvement for a quarter of a century. ... They are being granted by ALL the people, not just by the white people or gentiles, and as a member of this board of Estimates I represent ALL the people....

"Now, in casting my vote in the negative, I know full well the responsibility I am taking. I know full well that if my point of view prevails, it may mean the end of Stuyvesant Houses. ... It may mean the end of all such privately initiated projects. Huge as this project is, it dwindles down into insignificance as compared to the principle.

"The principle of equality is as old as our nation. Men of all races have thought it good enough to make supreme sacrifices for it in every generation. It was enunciated in the Declaration of Independence; it was written into the constitution. It is the law of the land. It is the keystone of the arch of our free society.

"Once we are committed to that principle, we can not be content to invoke it on some occasions and discard it for compelling reasons on others. As we sit here, men are dying for that principle; the least we can do is to live it. Surely, if Stuyvesant Houses are erected, the result will be a more beautiful section of our City; but that beauty is stained with a philosophy utterly opposed to everything we stand for.

"The President of Metropolitan says that 'Whites and blacks don't mix; perhaps in a hundred years they will.' A hundred years from now will be too late. Democracy of life is on trial today. The time is NOW. Private discrimination is a matter between the discriminator and his Maker. It is regrettable. But discrimination by a government by the people and for the people is an entirely different matter. That is more than regrettable. It is contrary to the fundamental principles on which our country was founded.

"Therefore, because I care more about the principle than the project, because I can not vote for public aid and public sponsorship of a private project whose officers state with candor that racial consideration will enter into the selection of tenants, I cast the three votes of my office in the negative."

Daily Radio Reports On Road Conditions

The state division of highways will resume its daily radio bulletins December 15 on road conditions during all periods of storm. This service will be continued all through the winter. Motorists may also obtain road reports at any of the highway district offices or state police headquarters throughout Illinois.

For the first time since the war, the division of highways now has adequate equipment to keep the state's 14,000-mile system of primary roads open despite the most severe winter storms, according to Walter A. Rosenfield, director of public works and buildings. Approximately 300 miles of snow fence has been set up, 1,192 snow removal trucks, 2,157 snow plows, and 270 cinder spreaders are ready to go into action whenever needed.

Governor Dwight H. Green has issued an appeal to the people of Illinois, asking them to assure a merrier

Christmas for everyone by joining with the National Safety Council and 130 other organizations in holding down the number of holiday accidents.

Need For Teachers Stated by Bureau

Normal, Ill.—Some 3,000 requests for teachers were made of the Illinois State Normal University Bureau of appointments during 1948. These set an all-time record, according to Dr. J. W. Carrington who heads this office.

The bureau had more than 1,000 calls for elementary teachers and only 24 elementary teachers in the 1948 class available for new positions. The other 51 students completing their work in this area returned to teaching positions they already had.

"Apparently," Dr. Carrington commented when analyzing the year's report, "there is no possible way to get enough well prepared elementary teachers. This year we will prepare one in the United States where we need 10."

Although word from some sections of the country shows that there is now an adequate supply of high school teachers, "this does not appear to be the case in Illinois, and particularly in the central part of the state," Dr. Carrington added. Especially scarce are teachers of home economics, business education, Latin, music, girls' physical education, Latin, music, girls' physical education, science and special education.

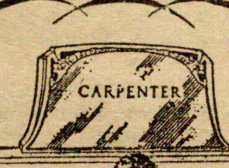

About half of the 406 teachers who secured new positions with the help of ISNU during 1948 were graduates of other years. Only 202 of the current class accepted new teaching jobs. Seventy-nine of the year's graduates already had teaching positions many others chose to continue their schooling, and 20 of the women were unavailable because of marriage. More than four-fifths of the class, all told, are teaching.

A geographical analysis shows ISNU sent teachers into new positions located in 64 counties of Illinois, 14 states outside Illinois, Hawaii, and one foreign country during 1948. The number placed in this vicinity includes.

So. Suburbs Outline 1949 March of Dimes

Plans for participation by suburbs of the southern section of Cook County in the 1949 March of Dimes campaign were outlined at a meeting of March of Dimes chairmen from those suburbs at Sally's on the Skokie last week.

Attending the meeting were Dr. F. P. Tracy, Blue Island; Roy Soderberg, Chicago Heights; Mrs. Walter Mann, Columbus Manor; Andrew Sareny, Dixmoor; Mrs. Harry Reeves, East Hazel Crest; Walter Hartmann and Roy Knutson, Homewood; Mayor Meekini of Glenwood; Frank Ring and James A. Mann, Harvey; James Holt, Hazel Crest; Gilbert Lehnert, Holbrook; E. J. Shaffranski, Lemont; Mrs. J. B. Henslee, Markham; E. F. Brooks, Jr., Matteson; E. Mostyn, Midlothian; Mrs. Martha Ramsey, Oak Forest; Mrs. Mabel Ekberg, Orland Park; Peter Kurz, Riverdale; H. Rinkema, South

Holland; and Wesley Stemm, Tinley Park.

After citing the outstanding record of the Suburban Division last year, which showed a greater increase in March of Dimes collections than any other campaign division, Arthur Senior of Homewood, chairman of the Suburban Division for the past five years, introduced Charles J. Murphy, postmaster of Oak Park, as the new head of the Suburban Division for 1949.

James D. Cunningham, Chairman of the Cook county chapter, pointed out in a statement read at the meeting that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is similar to a mutual insurance company. "The $1,000,000 we are seeking from this area for the 1949 March of Dimes campaign will form a pool from which anyone stricken with polio and needing assistance can draw," he said. "If every person in Cook county were to participate in the March of Dimes, every one in the county affected with polio would be insured against going into heavy debt for the costs of medical care. Infantile paralysis is one of the most costly diseases anyone can contract."

Reviewing the work of Cook county chapter during the past year, Mrs. Frances L. Karlsteen, executive secretary stated, "We don't know all the answers to polio, but we will fight on until it is conquered. In the meantime, using March of Dimes funds, the Chapter is providing the finest medical care available to polio victims. Further those receiving assistance from the Chapter include not only current polio patients, but also many victims who were stricken with the disease long before the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was created. Due to the record polio year just past, the Chapter's funds will be all but exhausted by the end of the year."

Medical people are worried about a polio epidemic year for Cook county in 1949, asserted Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, Director of the Cook County Department of Public Health.

"The disease apparently occurs in epidemic form every three years. We have had epidemic years in 1937, 1940, 1943 and 1946. The heavy upsurge in the latter half of 1948, beginning with the warm spell during the last week in August, has continued right through November, with both an increase in the number and severity of cases. This is especially true in the suburbs of Cook county. To the best of our medical knowledge, seven out of every ten polio victims in 1949 will need prolonged care. Thus far, every polio victim requiring assistance in obtaining medical care has received that assistance through March of Dimes funds.

He said that medical science can be reasonably optimistic about finding a cure for infantile paralysis. "The United States is leading in research for a polio preventive," he stated. "With some 10 universities currently engaged in polio research, we believe that a preventive will be found within a few years. We are now able to immunize mice, rats and monkeys against polio to a great extent and are well on our way towards the discovery of a preventive for human beings."

Prof. Says Drop in Prices Not Dangerous

Farm prices probably will drop a little in the next few years, but they'll remain high compared to prewar levels, predicts Dr. L. J. Norton, economist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

"I do not see the long looked for crackup in our high level of business activity in the near future," Norton stated. "Certainly anything like the early 1930's, when agriculture was bankrupt, is a long way down the economic road."

Continued high government spending and probable larger military expenditures are expected to keep business good, Norton believes.

"But some of the other supporting factors are getting thinner as time passes," he cautions. "However, we have too many differences in costs and over-all demand to allow prices to go back to prewar levels."

But even if prices of farm products are lower, costs may not drop much, Norton warned. This situation would result in lower net farm income. Farmers on less productive land would feel the pinch first.

Farmers are in a much better position to stand a price drop now than after World War I because they've used wartime savings to pay off debts. But they're also more vulnerable because of higher fixed cash costs, Norton said.

"So far as corn prices in the near future are concerned, they may work back toward the loan level once the over-run which cannot be cribbed is marketed," Norton stated. "Unless we have a short crop in 1949, I can hardly see how the price of corn can go much above the loan level."

The trend in livestock prices for next year will likely be downward as total supplies are increased, he added. But increases in total beef supply are not likely because cattle numbers are low now, and the full effect of increased output of hogs cannot be felt until after October 1949.

Mistletoe

By Roberts Mann,
Supt. of Conservation

Among our cherished customs at Christmas time, is that of decorating our homes with mistletoe, particularly with branches of it hung over doorways and from ceilings. Why do we do this? From whence came the custom of kissing under the mistletoe? Where did it get its name?

No one knows, nor can botanists tell us how or where this strange plant originated. Its mysterious habits of living and reproducing, high up on the branches of trees, caused it to be credited with magical properties and regarded with superstitious fear or religious reverence by primitive and ancient peoples. During the feasts of Saturnalia, in mid-December, the Romans ornamented their temples and dwellings with mistletoe to propitiate gods to whom it was sacred. In Norse mythology, too, there is a complicated legend involving the death of Balder, son of Od and Frigga, and the wicked Loki, whereby the mistletoe was condemned to be a parasite with no power to cause misfortune, sorrow or death, and beneath which anyone might receive a kiss as an assurance that it was an emblem of peace and love.

The ancient Druids held nothing more sacred than the mistletoe and it played a prominent part in the ceremonies and religious sacrifices at the time of their New Year. There is a very old tradition, in England, that the mistletoe was once a "fair tree" in the forest; that from its wood was made the cross upon which Christ was crucified; and that therefore it was cursed and condemned to live forever as the most despised of plants.

There are many curious customs, myths and traditions involving the mistletoe as there are races and nations of people. It is distributed over the earth in all the warmer climates and almost to the limits of the temperate zones.

In the United States there are two types: the True Mistletoe and the Dwarf Mistletoe. The latter—small scaly degenerate plants that are wholly parasitic—grow only on coniferous trees. The true mistletoes grow only on deciduous, or hardwood, trees. The best known of these is found as far north as southern New Jersey, central Ohio, southern Illinois and eastern Kansas; and is the state flower of Oklahoma. There is a closely related species in the Pacific Coast states and many other species varying in leaves, flowers, fruit, size and habits of growth.

The mistletoe is an "evergreen plant" and in the south it grows in dense large bunches that give a peculiar but pleasing touch to the forests in midwinter, when it is conspicuous among the naked branches. Our common mistletoe has yellowish-green leaves that are about 2 inches long, oval, thick and leathery. The male flowers and female flowers, both tiny and yellowish, are always on separate plants. The female flowers are followed by clusters of berries that ripen in autumn and hang on for months. The berry is ivory-white, about one-eighth inch in diameter, and filled with a juicy sticky pulp which encloses a single seed. These berries attract birds. The pulp is digested but the little seed passes thru unharmed. This, plus the fact that many seeds stick to birds' bills or feet, accounts for the spreading of mistletoe from tree to tree.

The true mistletoe, being green, manufactures part of its own food but derives water and other necessary substances from the plant upon which it grows. Its roots penetrate thru the outer and inner bark to find crude sap in the sapwood. When too many bunches of mistletoe grow on a tree, sooner or later the whole tree dies.

It can be a pest; particularly to a bashful guy.

Yearly Report Lists 116 Will County Real Estate Dealers

Will county has 116 licensed real estate brokers, according to a yearly report issued by Frank G. Thompson, director of the state department of registration and education, which listed the names of the brokers in this county.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

The Missus "Ducks" Out

Slim Hartman took his missus duck hunting the other day. And after five hours of sitting in a swamp, she'd had enough! Going home, Slim reminded her good-naturedly of the time she'd taken him to a woman novelist's lecture, and insisted that he sit it out.

So now the missus and Slim have an understanding. No more duck hunting for her—no more lectures for him. They decided each to his own taste.

It's because they can agree to disagree like that, I think, that Slim and the missus get on so well—content to stay home nights together, enjoying one another's company over a glass of beer and a game of chess.

From where I sit, we can't all enjoy the same things—but we can share those little pleasures that we do enjoy—a glass of beer, a game of chess, some music on the radio—and live-and-let-live when it comes to the others.

LADINO CLOVER FINE FOR PASTURE, MORE BEING SEEDED

Livestock men should strongly consider Ladino clover in planning their 1949 pasture seeding program, suggests G. R. Carlisle, livestock specialist, University of Illinois agricultural extension service.

Many feeders have already had excellent results with Ladino, he pointed out; it's high protein and very palatable.

"Considerable Ladino has been sown this fall, and more seedings are planned for next spring," Carlisle commented. "It's only 8 acres of pure Ladino from May until September," he related.

"We saw the pasture two or three weeks after the stock were taken off, and there was 4 to 6 inches of growth then," Carlisle recalled.

A feeder in Franklin county carried 700 head of sheep for most of the summer on, 50 acres of Ladino, he added. On October 1, the pasture was tall enough so he planned to move his feeder lambs from lespedeza to the Ladino.

There is some bloat danger with Ladino, Carlisle cautioned. To avoid it, a mixture of Ladino and grasses is recommended, and stock should be fed plenty of roughage before they are turned onto Ladino for the first time.

so that they won't eat too much of it at once.

Starch from sources other than corn were used for nonfood purposes as long ago as 3500 B. C. in Egypt, where papyrus was held together with a starchy adhesive and women used starch for face powder.
